The Idea of Our Book

The greatest pleasure in one's life is to recall the joys and pranks of youth. Therefore, we have attempted to portray in these few pages our life at Grover. All we ask is but one tear and one smile for memory's sake and we shall feel that the labor expended on this book will not have been in vain.

On each of our lead pages, there are students who symbolize the phases of our school life. These chosen few were selected by the Senior Class because of their superlative achievements.

Valedictory

We, the graduates of 1950, have come to the time of hail and farewell. The task assigned us has been done, and the promise which our parents and our teachers have seen in us has come to fulfillment. All that has gone before in the past four years of earnest endeavor we will try to apply through our adult lives.

To Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Devine, and the members of the faculty go our thanks for a job well done. It has been proven to us that education consists not so much in quantity of information, but rather in quality of imaginative guidance. We feel that the lessons we have learned have been less mastery of fact, than increased awareness that the world we live in needs decency and honor, spirit and integrity. Above all, we know it needs intelligent citizens who can adapt their education to help solve its problems, to keep it free as the Almighty and the founding fathers intended. Within our power, we will insure that it is a world in which the individual can pursue his destiny, mindful of false philosophies yet assured because he knows them for the destroyers of liberty that they are.

To our parents—neither poet nor wise man has put into adequate words the sentiments of affection and gratitude that are ours. The joys and plaudits of graduation might belong, in truth, to you. As time firms and molds our character, we trustfully hope that it brings us more of the strength and inspiration we have drawn from you.

We should say farewell to our school, yet, in a way, we can never say farewell to the friendships, the gains, the pleasant and fruitful days that Grover has given us. We know that these memories will ever be renewed and relived.

Carmelo Contino.

Today's Class . . . Tomorrow

"Oops, pardon me! Aren't you Pat Jacoy? Well, imagine meeting you on a rocket ship. Where are you going?"

"Why, I'm with Leonard Anzalone, Antoinette Vullo, Duane Bennett, Sally Nasca, Joan Hurley and John Giallombardo, all Groverites and we're going to a reunion of the class of '50. Do you know who the pilots of this ship are? They are none other than Benny Scinta and Millie Baggarozzo. You know, they were always flying high together."

"Fasten your safety belts, please. We're landing at the Buffalo airport."

"Well, goodbye now, Pat. I'll see you at the reunion. Toodleoo."

"Step this way, folks, step right up to Guzio's Glowing, Glittering, Glistening, Gleaming Shoe Shine Stand, the stand where you can sit."

"Paper, paper, get your paper."

"My goodness, paper boy, you remind me of Jack Bagarozzo, a former classmate."

"Well, ma'am, I am. Would you like a paper? Why, this newspaper is almost exclusively Grover Clevelandish. Owned by Carrie Polito, it has as its editor Rose Marie Vellere. Ginny Bartolotta, who always did click with everyone, is the shutter happy photographer. Our prize English student, Rocky Fenno, wrote this exclusive article on the double wedding of Brad Nutty to Pat Telesco and Tony Testa to May Tripi. You can see where Grace Petock is now designing costumes for television broadcasts. Then, too, this article tells of Marie Tromba's promotion to Supervisor of the new nursing school. Her assistant is to be Celestina Abati.

"Thanks for the information, but I really must leave now, I'll read the rest of the paper in the taxi on the way home."

"Hmmm—Look at this sports page. Marge Zoiczer, Marcella Beaty, Marlene Martin and Joan Petock have joined the Olympic swimming team. Oh, this should be good — the Roller Derby is coming to Buffalo, August 1st, bringing with it those wildcat skaters, Toni Parisi, Susie Panaro and Rose Marsala."

"Here we are, Miss, at the big, booming, beautiful Sal A. and Sal J. Ballacchino Hotel, Inc."

As our visitor signs the register, she reads the names of some other alumni who have come for the reunion. Among these are Mary Della Sala, Glenn Lincicome, Robert Godios, Lucy DiPasquale, Theresa DiMarco and Carl Rizzo. She marches over to the elevator which is run by Carl Saccone, who always did have his ups and downs in life, and then she retires to her suite to gain sufficient strength for the hectic evening which follows.

Yes, that was the night to remember, the night when the voices of the Class of '50 again resounded through the halls of Grover. Presiding over this glorious affair was Charlie Pace, the Principal, assisted by Frank Cartonia. The speech of Anthony Maccagnano, President of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Suffering Seniors, was interrupted by a radio-active flash which blew out the atomic lighting system in the auditorium. However, light was restored by bright Mike Vertino, the custodian, who has finally obtained an official life-long membership at Grover.

While talking to Marge Kearney, a teacher at Grover, our visitor learned that several of our girls such as Mary Procari-Rossi, Anna Mulé, Helen Stevenson and Joan Sunzeri are now stationed at the Wave quarters in Good Bye and that air hostesses, Joan Claus, Etta Winters, and Pat Fox are now living at the Flying Saucer base on Mars. She also learned that Joe Timineri is author of the famed book "Forever I'm a Senior."

As usual, the gang decided to dash across the street to annoy Mr. Donahue. Kay Naples, Rose Pignataro, and Cassie Leone were still sipping the inevitable nickel cokes. It took quite a while for Johnny Tomasula to compose the concoctions which were ordered because he was interrupted by a customer who was in dire need of a box of Peter's Pink Pills for Puny People. This ailing customer was none other than Joe Lazzaro.

Ah — the time has come when our visitor must bid her friends goodbye. This is the end of a perfect day. As she rushes to the rocket base to catch her stratospheric flying saucer, she runs into Antoinette Pisa, Joe Pilittere, Jeanette Kester, Ray Messiah, John Warner and Marie Loverso. They too had decided to leave Buffalo and venture into a more fantastic world.

Meet the

We watched the wee ones walk through the corridors in the opening months of school with that slightly bewildered look about them, but now, in the waning months of their freshman year, they are beginning to get the gist of how things are run in old GC.

Blase LaDuca, that towering freshman, has become quite a big man on the campus. Working with the football, baseball, and basketball teams, he should be quite an asset to all groups. Caesar Tronolone has acquired undying fans among all the students, teachers, and parents who watched his side-splitting performance in "Do You Remember?" Another first year man who made a hit in the school play was Saverio Lattuca who played Angelo "Fatte Posta" in the grammar school scene. Mr. Kennedy enjoyed Rosalie Andolina's rendition of "Auld Lang Syne" so well that she was asked to repeat it at a future assembly.

Freshmen

Many "frosh" have come to us well-recommended from the grammar schools they attended. Dolores Falcone, president of her class and winner of the DAR and Frances Curro winner of the Jesse Ketchum and DAR awards, should be among the leaders of their class. Our athletic future depends largely upon the following young sportsmen, Anthony Ippolito, Pascal St. Angelo, Michael Giallombardo, George Pollino, Mario Galluzzo, Justin Badame, and a host of others.

Our little ones who look forward so eagerly to their sophomore year would do well to pause for a moment in their fast-moving world to look back, perhaps with a little tear, upon the friends and memories they have made in the past few months, for these are those precious years that will never be forgotten.

Entirely free from the embarrassed bewilderment suffered by freshmen, our sophomore class has now begun to participate in round-the-school activities.

Five of the sophomores, Captain Joe Tauriello, Charlie Sciandra, Ronnie Parisi, Mac Ciminelli and Mel Caruso (who, incidentally, has won the table tennis championship for the W.T.T.T. of N.Y.S. and is also on the debate team) have developed into the finest cheerleaders we've followed in years. Their skill and wit recall to our minds two great cheerleaders of the past, Joe Guerra and Charlie Pollino.

Watching the athletes, we have seen Fred Saiia and Vinny Carbone match their brawn against the best in the city in the football series and we have pretty high hopes for Sonny Pinna-taro in the basketball tournies. The second year boys have dominated the scene in track and cross country. Russ DiLorenzo, who received a major while only a freshman, Rocky Zendano, Don Tomasulo and Frank Ricotta bring the light to Mr. Kuhn's eyes.

The more studious sophomores shine in their line of endeavor. Heading the list of our intel-ligenza are Thora Percival, Concetta Natoli, Edwin Ilardo, and James Gullo who is also gaining valuable experience with the debate team.

Then there are the social-minded students Pete Grisanti, Thomas Gallagher, and Bob Tim-ineri, who are always willing to have a good time and help everyone to have one, too.

The giddy Juniors, dashing madly through the halls, day after day, seem to have more fun than any other class. They have now gained the dignity of being upper classmen but don't yet have the worry and responsibility which presses on seniors.

The girls of 300 were very proud when Jane Navarro sold the highest number of tickets in the school for "Do You Remember?" Donna Schreckengost made quite a hit with all when she won both the Declamation and the Voice of Democracy essay contests. Another orator, James McDonald won second place in the citywide Boys' Declamation Contest with his speech "A Modern Problem".

In the line of athletics, what Junior hasn't stood on the bleachers down in the old gym and cheered for the third year basketball stars Fran Johnson, Angelo Macaluso, Jim McGroder and President Gene Shanahan? The girls hiked out to Delaware Park to feed apples to Howard Gawne, Sam Zarccone, Leslie Ralston, John Barone and the other cross country boys. The girls have their wiry stars, too, in Catharine Eberhardt, Elaine Doctor, Dolly Ballacchino, the McKernan twins and many others.

Once Upon a Time

The Reading Club was formed this year by Miss Welch and Miss Lombardi to give the students an opportunity to read and discuss great pieces of literature. The meeting consists of round table discussions of literary masterpieces and the playing of classical music.

Who's Who and What's What

The newly organized Who's Who and What's What Club, under the guidance of Miss Ozarin, provides an opportunity for discussing the current events. In this troubled world of international misunderstandings, it is useful for our students to have an extensive knowledge of history and economics.

Where's Your Pass?

The Grover Cleveland Monitor System is one of which the school may surely be proud. By developing their sense of initiative and responsibility, this organization has done a great deal in preparing our future citizens.

Resolved That . . .

The subject chosen for Debate this year was one which has been on the lips of many Americans and the basis of numerous arguments. The resolution — THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD ADOPT A PLAN OF SOCIALIZED MEDICINE — afforded the members of both teams an opportunity to express their particular views on this current problem.

The affirmative side of the question was presented on home grounds against Technical. But due to the lack of experience on the part of our team, composed entirely of sophomore students, we lost to the Engineers. Meanwhile, our negative team provided Riverside with some concrete arguments opposing Socialized Medicine, but Riverside rallied to a victory.

Our Debaters of this year seem to be promising contenders for the City Championship in 1951.

LATIN CLUB—The newly-organized Latin Club has proved quite successful. A typical meeting includes the singing of Grover's Alma Mater translated into Latin, and Guadeamus Igitur and the playing of the popular game "20 Questions", using objects familiar to early Roman life. Yes, Caesar is dead, but the Latin language still lives on in Grover Cleveland.

Musical Extravaganza is a Hit

Curtain! Curtain going up . . .

Yes, indeed, the curtain did go up on one of the finest productions Grover has witnessed in many years. Written and directed by Joseph Guerra and Charles Pollino, two Grover alumni, "Do You Remember" portrayed an aged couple reminiscing about the years gone by. In the various acts, we follow them through the different stages of their full, happy lives. John and Mary are first shown as childhood pals, then as high school sweethearts and finally as college lovers. Yes, it will be a long time before anyone forgets "Do You Remember?".

For the Record

Garlands to those Home Economics classes who made the garments for the European children.

Our own Buffalo orphans were also remembered at Christmas time by many Grover girls who voluntarily filled some forty stockings to overflowing with gifts of all kinds.

Salvatore J. Ballacchino and Marie Cordaro certainly must love school. Throughout their four years at Grover, they have been neither tardy nor late. Congratulations!

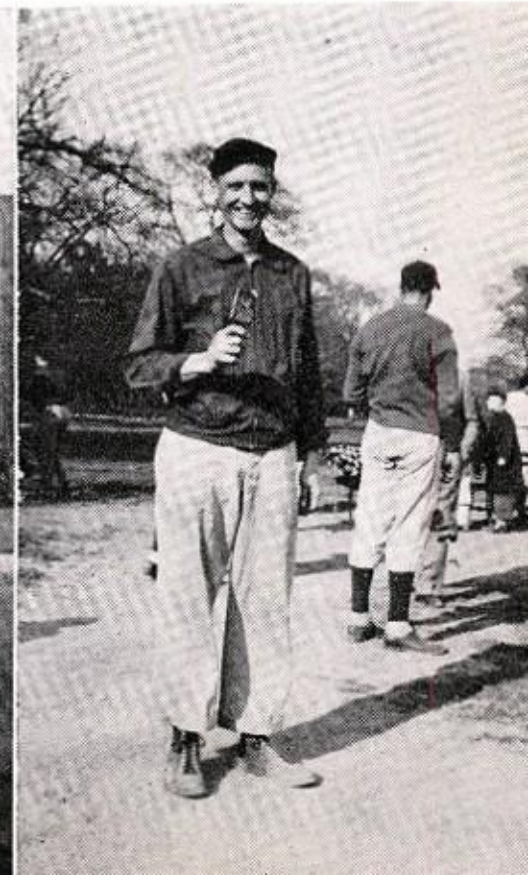

A new organization was formed by former Grover students this year — the GROVER ALUMNI ASSOCIATION — under the leadership of Richard Salem, President. After their initial meeting during November, they held their first dance at the Armory, and now plan to make it an annual affair. We're certainly proud of that group whose initiative has enabled us to carry on our activities even after leaving Grover.

And who could forget the unscheduled vacation caused by the coal strike? We certainly enjoyed the seventeen days of freedom, but now we're suffering under the strain of extra work and 3 o'clock dismissals.

For the first year in the history of Grover the senior class has elected to wear caps and gowns for their graduation.

Seniors, watch the '51 Clevelander for the publication of the photos of you and your classmates decked out in caps and gowns.

Ten seniors out of a class of 166 have had an average of 90% or higher on all seven of the term averages for 4 years — a splendid record. They are: Vera Ballacchino, Franklyn Campagna, Gloria Caruana, Carmelo Contino, Catherine Giannuzzi, Marguerite Kearney, Robert A. Lombardo, Anthony Perla, Mary Ann Pollino, Donna Stearns.

Gridders and Rooters . . . A Fighting Team

Following its spectacular 31-0 conquest of Masten, our football team succumbed to its last four foes. However, the Grover gridders were never out-gamed or out-fought. Every loss was by a scant margin, Hutchinson downing us 12-13 in the night game. Injuries to key men definitely played a part in our losses.

To single out a few players would be a deep injustice to the other boys without whose spirit and determination football victories would be impossible.

Grover was represented on the city's All-High team by Andy Scire and Joe Mombrea, who both received honorable mention.

Gangway for the Harriers

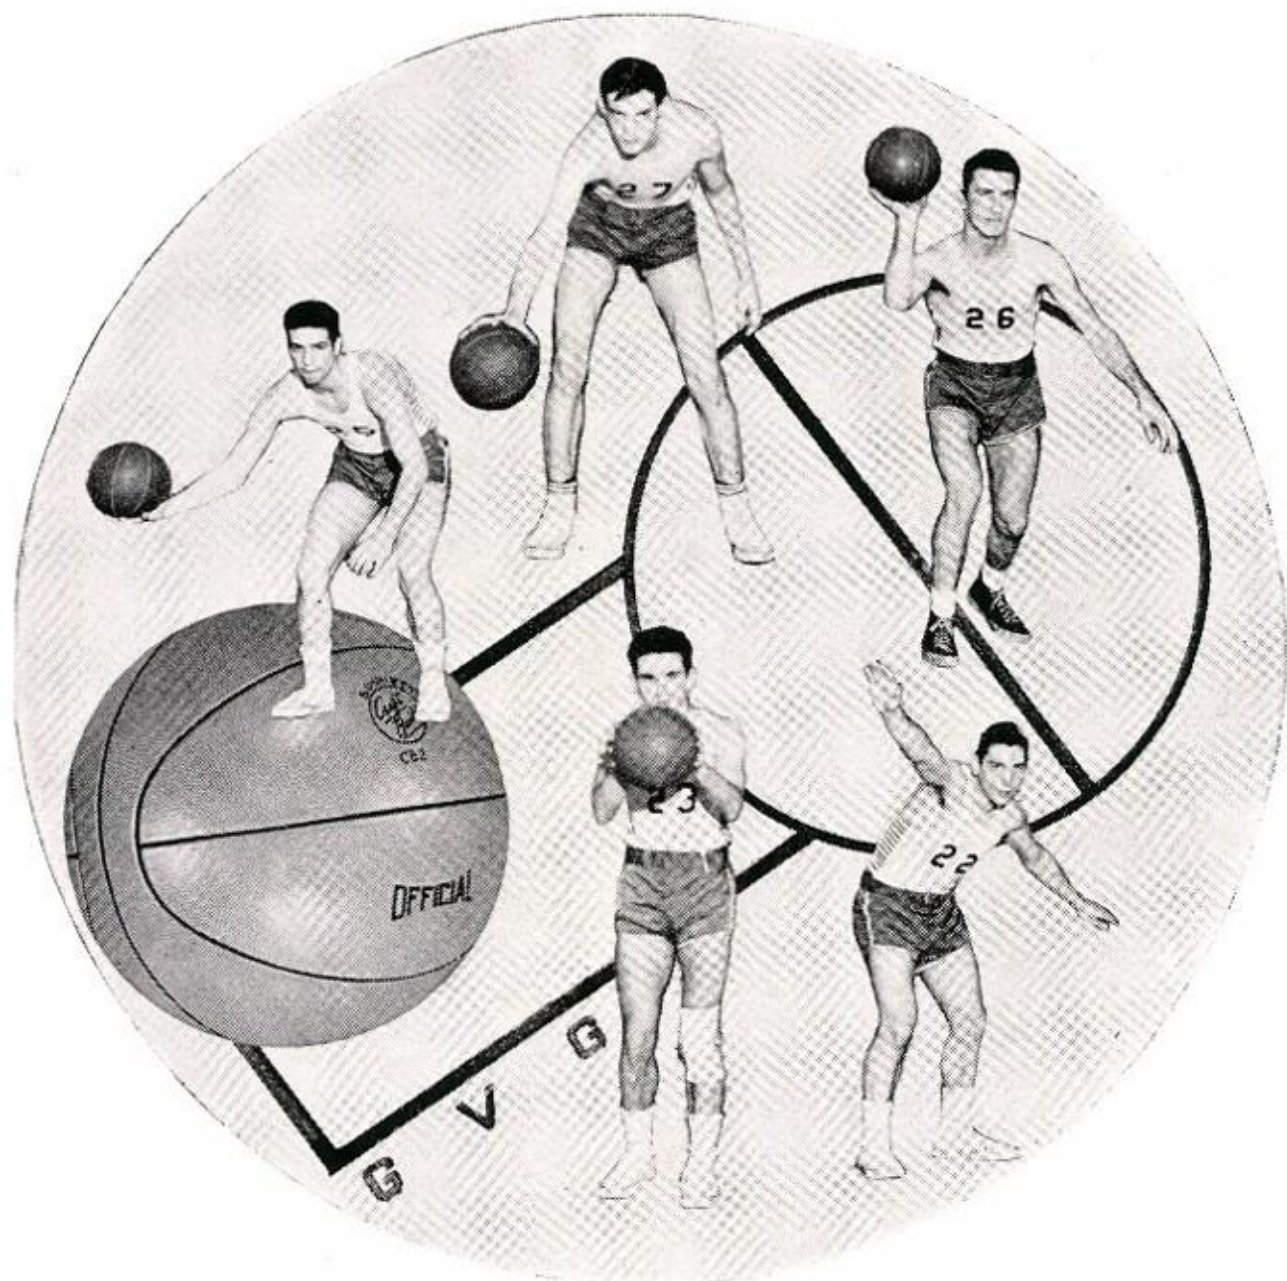

CROSS COUNTRY—The Cross Country team, under the direction of Mr. Kuhn fared well last fall. In three dual meets, the team finished first once, and second twice. In the All-High race, the team placed sixth in a ten team field. The first five boys to finish for Grover were Captain Dick Simmons, a speed demon, Rocco Zendano, a hundred pound will o' the wisp, Howard Gawne, the carrot-topped scrapper, Frank Ricotta, a lad diminutive in stature but enormous in fighting heart, and Don Doria, a fleeting zephyr on the cinder path. We would like the team to know we appreciate and admire them for their efforts.

BASKETBALL—The '49-'50 edition of Grover's cagers enjoyed its most successful season in several years. The team emerged victorious in 6 contests, defeating Burgard, McKinley, Riverside, Technical, East and Lafayette.

The most exciting but most heartbreaking games of the year were our losses to Kensington by a 1 point margin and to Masten by a 2 point margin.

Special recognition must be extended to Toto Paul and Andy Scire, co-captains, who both received honorable mention on the city's All-High Team.

To the squad, those unflinching youths who strive for Grover's glory, we offer our appreciation.

Under the capable tutelage of Mr. Helwig, the Presidents' tennis team has become a top flight squad. Arduous work, perseverance, and a willingness to win have been the main elements in the success of the team.

Baseball

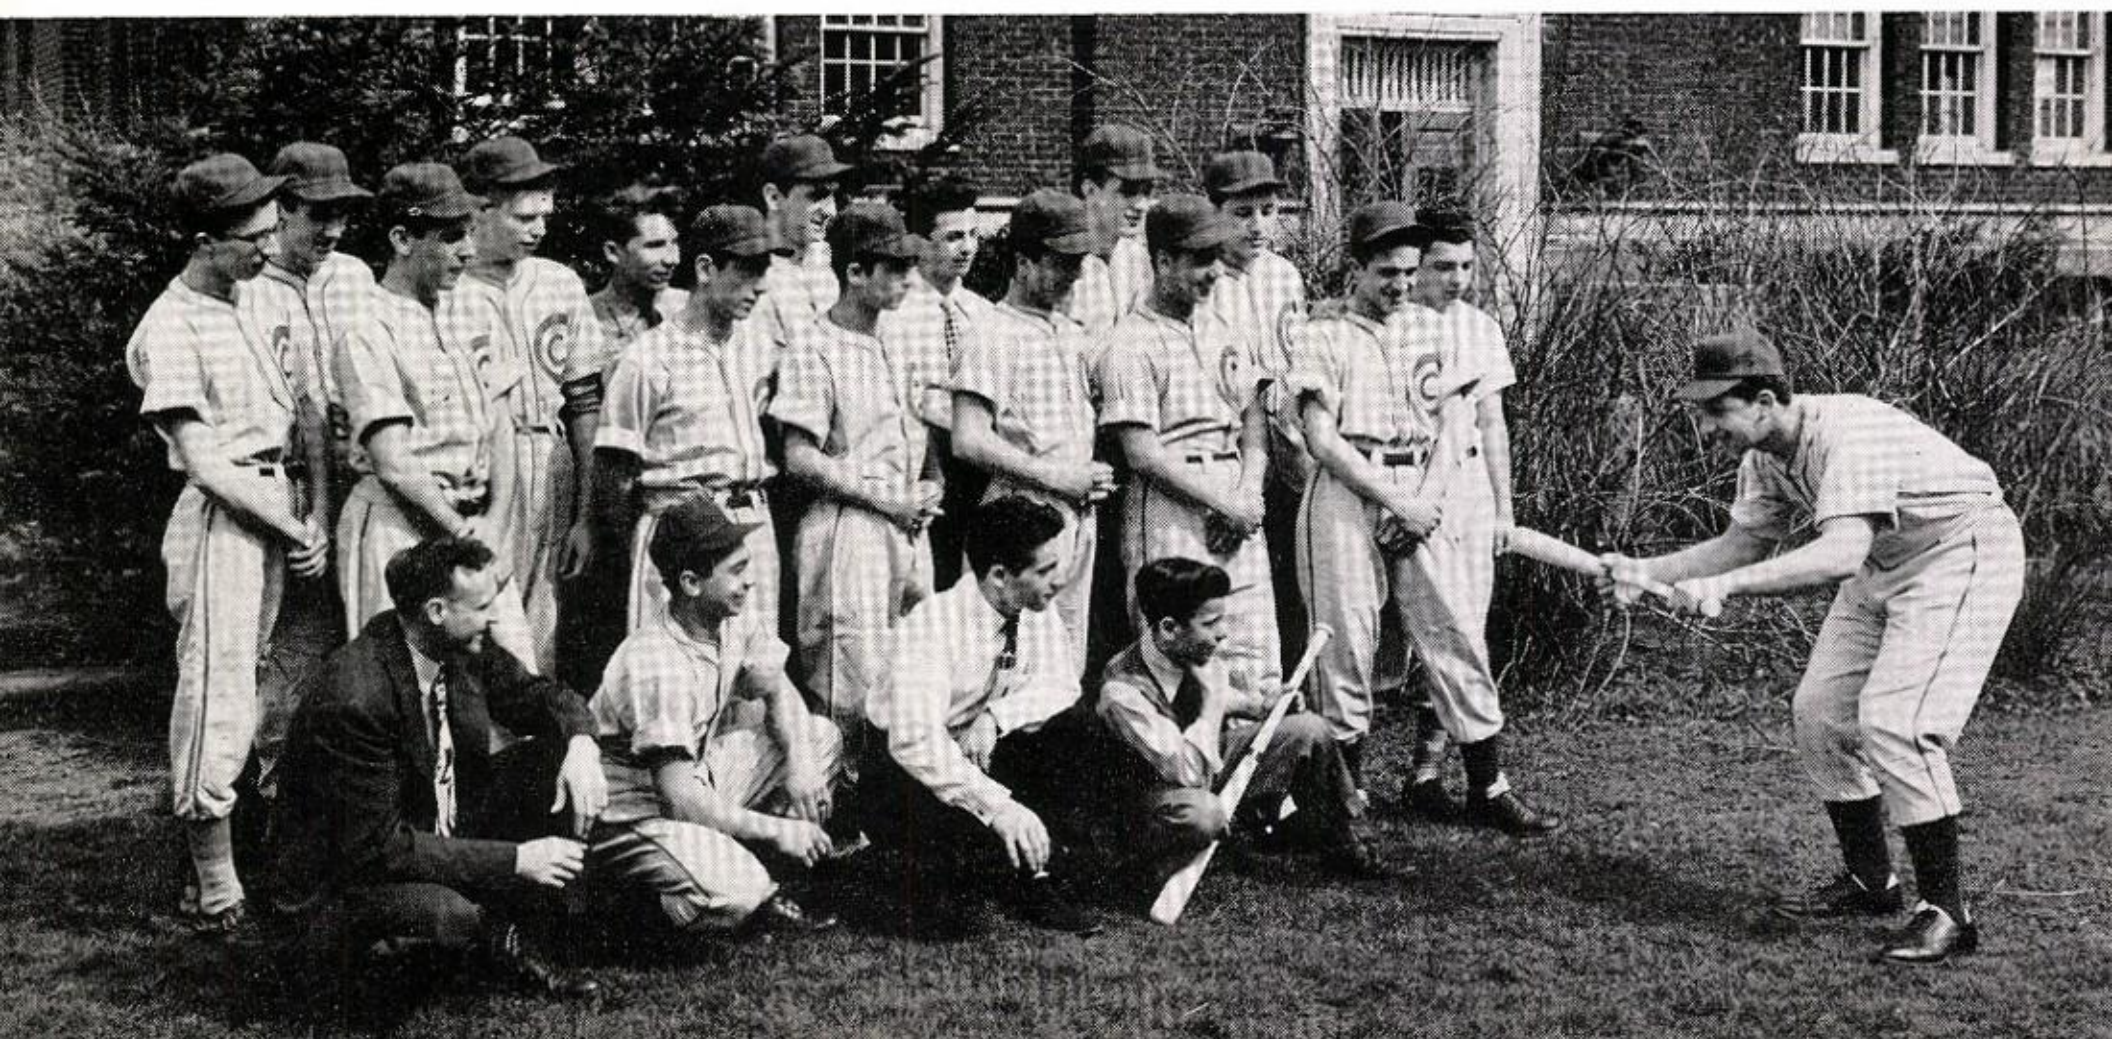

Eighteen fiery boys with a glowing ambition to give the school its first championship — that was G. C.'s baseball team. Led by its "Murderers Row," Capt. Nick Mogavero, John Tronolone and Tony Paul, all potential All-High Candidates, this season's team was a respected aggregation throughout the league.

Also furthering the cause of the team were Brad Nutty, Vince Carbone, Tom DeMaria, John Bellanti, Fred Bonjovianni, and John Tomasula.

Has Future Stars

Bill Vullo, Joe Pollina, Mike Battaglia, Carl Contino, Joe Pillittere, Chris Nasca, and Tony Muscarella have been the chief executioner's against Grover's opponents.

Track

Although not of championship calibre, the 1950 track team has won itself a place in the hearts of the student body. This fighting band of warriors, although greatly inexperienced, gave a creditable showing in every meet.

Special recognition should be given to such stalwarts as Fran Johnson, Roy Fiorella, Rocco Zendano, Don Doria, Ray Messiah, Frank Cartonia, Matt Randazzo, and diminutive Joe "Hungry" Fiorella, a freshman with a world of promise.

Tracksters—Men of Determination

FIRST: R. Godios, S. Zarcone, R. Lunghino, F. Ricotta, H. Gawne, D. Doria, R. Zendano, J. Fiorella, M. Giallombardo, T. Marasco. SECOND: Mr. Spahn, Coach, C. Messiah, Manager, D. Grieco, H. School Athletes

Though not widely publicized, girls' sports form an important part in the after school curriculum. Among the various activities in which our athletes may participate are basketball, baseball, volleyball, deck tennis and hiking. Credits, given for each sport, enable the girls to receive their letters and the much sought after gold pin in their senior year.

The deck tennis championship went to 308. Composed of Jo Silvaroli, Gloria Caruana, Annetta Anselmo, Mary Ann Pollino and May Tripi, the team defeated 300.

Miss Maché chose the best athletes to form the following major teams:

Basketball

Joan Petock
Alice Speakman
Della Burgio
Cassie Leone
Rose Pignataro
Vera Ballacchino

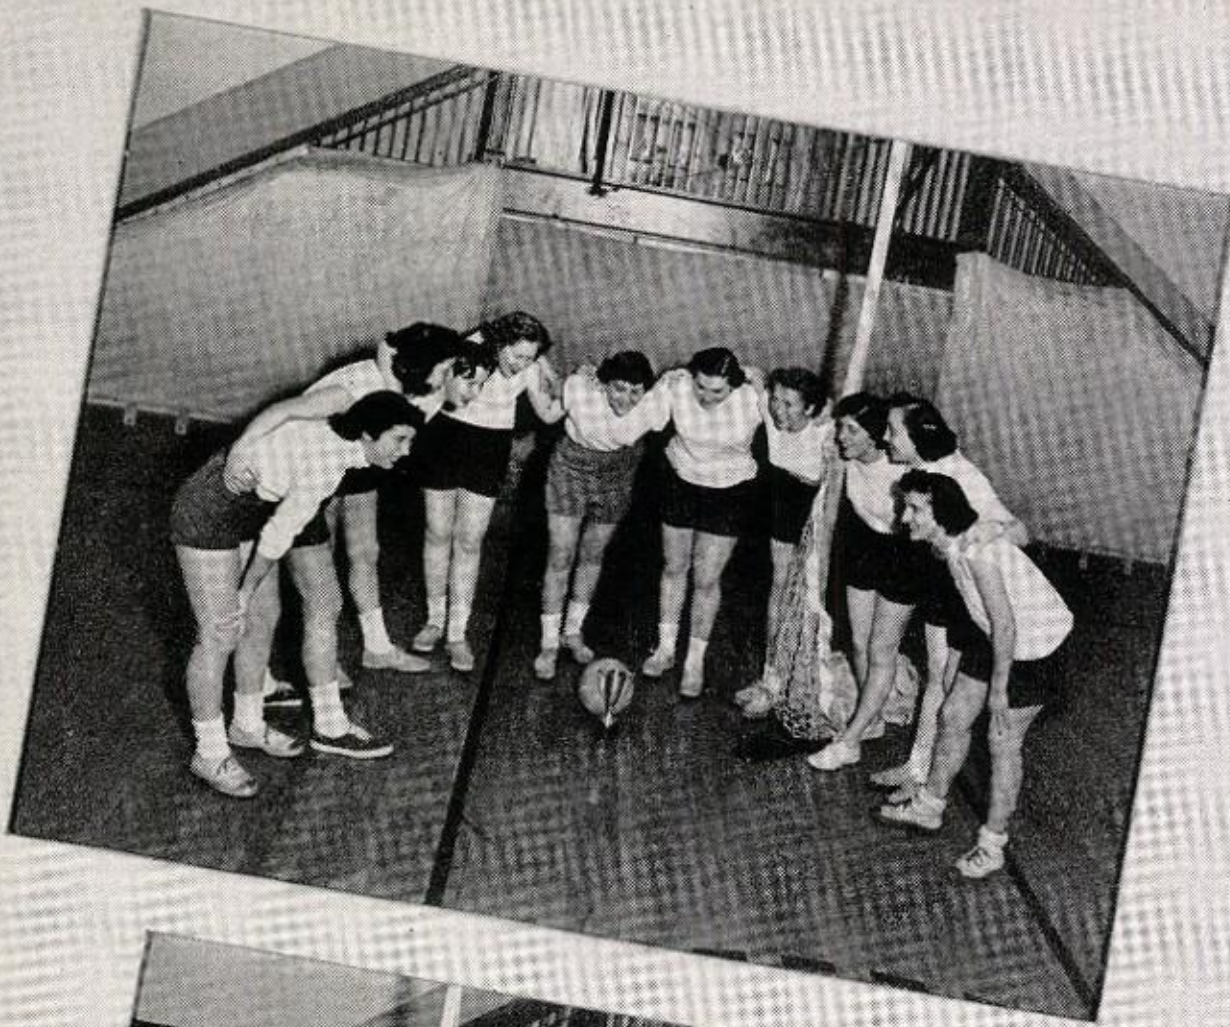

Volleyball

Mary Jane Panaro
Joan Petock
